Up to our necks in paint, crayons, chalk, charcoal, papier mache and a variety of other materials. 17 of us worked in art class, designing and learning to express ourselves thr-ough art and craft work.

This is the first time for several years that Arlington has had an Art Department, and the assembly walls were enlivened from time to time with works of art created by the 7th and 8th grades and the high school art classes.

CLASS HISTORY

The fall of the year, 1945 saw the beginning of our education for the next twelve years. On the first step of our journey, we had eighteen members in our class and Mrs. Helen Carmony as our guide and teacher.

For the next five years, we had Mrs. Irene Ross, Mrs. Josephine Alexander, and Mrs. Louise Pike. We now had our journey half completed.

We then took a higher step in our education. We were in the 7th grade. That year we had Mr. Floyd Delon as our sponsor. We chose as our officers the following: President Lloyd Kennedy, Vice President Billy Earnest, Secretary-Treasurer Caroline Burris.

In the 8th grade, we still had Mr. Delon as our sponsor. Our class officers were: President Carolyn Ritter Vice President Billy Earnest, Secretary-Treasurer DelMonte Wagner.

Freshman Initiation was a day to remember. Mr. Paul Potts was our sponsor. Our officers were: President Billy Earnest, Vice President Richard Joyner, Secretary Carol Long, Treasurer Carolyn Ritter. We helped with the concessions at the county tourney. We lost two members, but were happy to have Lynn Turner join us.

As Sophomores we had three long years left. Mr. Robert Hine was our sponsor. The officers were: President Lynn Turner, Vice President Richard Joyner, Secretary Ralph Kramer, Treasurer Sandra Webster. We ordered our class rings and were really happy when they arrived. In January of '55, Bettie Hauntz arrived to join us.

Our Junior year was part of our journey that we had been waiting for. We chose Miss Betty Klugh as our sponsor. Our officers were: President Ralph Kramer, Vice President Billy Earnest, Secretary Caroline Burris, Treasurer Lynn Turner. That year we undertook many money-making projects to help toward our Senior trip. Selling candy was our main project. We presented a play entitled "Feudin Over Yonder", which was directed by Miss Betty Klugh.

Hurray, Seniors! We are now on our last step of our journey. We have really looked forward to this year. We have as our sponsor Mr. Ralph John. Our officers are President Richard Joyner, Vice President Freddie Wilson, Secretary Sandra Webster, Treasurer Ralph Kramer. We presented our play and dedicated our year book. The trip was a great event of our Senior year. Finally came our graduation, the long awaited day of our twelve years. We are sorry we lost three members. There were eight of us out of the eighteen which started that finished our education here.

Twelve Years Together

Freddie Wilson was absent

Carolyn Ritter did not complete.

One night as I was sleeping, a strange dream came to me. I dreamed I was walking down Broadway in New York City, when I just happened to see a 1977 Chevrolet Jet. As I stopped to inspect it, I found the driver to be an old classmate, Ralph Kramer.

We talked for a good while. I found he was at this time a pilot in the U. S. Marines and had done very well for himself. We had nothing to do so we started to take a ride in Ralph's car.

As we started out of town to try it out, we saw Warren Nelson, another classmate, in his Jaguar. Warren, at this time, was the father of twins, and had a nice home. He was the owner of a large industry in Detroit which conducts a profitable business. Seeing us, he stopped. With him was Bob Beach, another classmate, Bob was not married as yet because the New York women had taken him for quite a ride.

After saying our hi's and good-bye's, I borrowed Ralph's car and quickly sailed toward Texas. I thought I would look up another classmate, Harold Maple, who was in the Air Force. He was married and had six children plus a 1975 Ford Scatterbird.

Leaving him, I hastened over to San Diego, California. I thought I would go to the race track and see the flashing Spirit No. 29021. Curious, I went out to see who the driver was. A fairly tall, black headed, dirty man crawled out. As he removed his helmet and glasses, I saw it was the flashing DelMonte Wagner. DelMonte had won the Pan American Road Race from Alaska to Cuba. I would have asked to take his car for a spin, but I was afraid I would beat his record.

Journeying on, I went into Canada and saw a hunter with enough clothes on to cover an elephant. Stopping for information, I saw it was another classmate, Lynda Pitts, coming back from a bear hunt. I found out she had been hunting men for ten years and having no luck, started hunting bears instead. After getting the information I needed, I sailed on to Alaska.

I cracked up on the North Pole. Being uninjured, I crawled out. Who should come running up but Caroline Burris and Lloyd Kennedy. They said they had been married for about fifteen years, and had three little papooses. Lloyd, who had been a mechanic in the states, helped me get the flying car going. I decided to head on around the world.

As I flew into Africa, I came upon a small village and stopped for rest. There I renewed acquaintances with the great lion hunter, Dick Joyner, and his companion, Bettie Hauntz. After getting food and a little rest, Dick and Bettie took me for a tour through the jungle. In coming back, we saw a large TRo2 Rocket Ship, which was having engine trouble. Before we realized what was happening, it had crashed a few hundred yards away. We ran over to its aid and saw a tall, skinny man come staggering out. He wasn't hurt, but a little shaken up. We went to him and saw it was Lynn Turner, an old classmate from way back. I asked him who was with him and if they were hurt. He said that Alma Noble, another classmate, was with him and was unhurt. While talking, I learned that Lynn had married shortly after graduation and had five very nice children. He was taking Alma, whose husband was in the Navy, to visit him at his base in South Africa, when the ship failed. As I went back to camp, I decided to take them with me. I delivered Lynn and Alma to South Africa. Then I sailed over the states to Hawaii.

As I pulled into port, I saw the great water skimmer F-82-6. Curious, I started looking it over. Inside, who should I see, but Miss Sandra Webster, who after a tragic love affair, had decided to devote her life to aeronautics, She had made several record runs around the world. She also said that she had seen the one classmate that I hadn't found as yet. I asked her where and she said in Cuba.

I was told this one was Susie Moore, who was the champion skier at this time. She was married and had two children, who were junior champion skiers. Saying goodbye to Sandra, I stopped in Cuba to see Susie for awhile. Then, I headed back for New York.

As I reached New York, I stepped out of the car and trying to recall all my experiences, started down the road to home. I stepped off the curb and about this time it seemed like a whole barrel of water hit me in the face. Waking up, I saw my wife standing over with an empty glass. She awakened me because my emotions had aroused the kids. After rocking them to sleep, I went to bed to dream of good old Arlington.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY of 1957

Senior Play

"So This is Bliss"

In the play, Dexter Smith, the troubled one, will soon be eighteen and ready either for college or marriage.

Deck is wise in math, baseball, and gas-station operations but not about women. Spring and Marcella Payne hit him "socko", and he finds himself engaged to Marcella. Reluctantly, he abandons college hopes, and urged by his fiance, announces he would like to get married as soon as he becomes eighteen.

Mother Smith says "nonsense". Dad Smith says O.K., but that he wants Deck to take care of the service station, tourists rooms and even Baby Chips, his sister's baby, for a week-end.

Dad, Mother, and Kid Sister go to the lake for the week-end. While they are gone, the service station overflows with tourists wanting rooms, a truck driver, a college field man, a pair of irresistible co-eds, Deck's older sister, his insurance selling brother-in-law, his baby nephew, Marcella (his fiance) with her mother and her three little hellion cousins.

Dutch Kelley, one of the co-eds, is stuck with a varsity show. She finds some of Deck's poems and music to fit them. More important she finds Deck and helps save him from a matrimonial trap that is about to spring.

Deck's experience over the week-end at the service station, helped by the attractiveness of Dutch, convinces him that he is not ready for marriage but that he should go to college where he can not only continue his education but also become better acquainted with Dutch.

The Junior Class presented the 3 act comedy "It's Great to be Crazy" October 18th and 19th. The Maxwell family keeps us in suspense and laughter from beginning to end.

Our misadventure starts when Betty Lou Maxwell has a poem printed in the school paper, and she and her chum, Bernadine, write to a firm that looks up family trees, in the hope of tracing their ancestry back to Elizabeth Browning Maxwell. Mr. Maxwell intercepts the reply and gasps when he reads that his ancestors include some notorious criminals. He reads that mental change usually occurs at about forty and imagines he is cracking up. His wife is amazed at his actions; Aunt Mary believes he has started drinking; and his boss has his faith in Mr. Maxwell almost shattered. Wilbur and his friend, Hercules, become magicians and produce the family skeletons; Gertrude, Louie, and Lady Macbeth. The older daughter, Connie, has developed an interest in Grover Jennings and the progress of their courtship is often interrupted. His mother, a society matron, becomes disgusted with the Maxwell clan. It requires the services of Clara Smith, a policewomen, aided by the magic tricks of Wilbur and Hercules, to bring everything to a happy conclusion.

RUSH COUNTY TOURNEY

The tourney was held Thursday night, January 10 and Saturday, January 12. Three games were played Thursday night. Arlington defeated Milroy by the score of 77 to 61. In the second game Morton won over New Salem. In the last game of the evening, Carthage defeated Mays. Saturday afternoon, Arlington defeated Manilla in an overtime by the score of 50 to 48. Morton won over Carthage. In the final game Saturday night, Arlington defeated Morton by the score of 68 to 52.

The veteran Arlington five proved to be the cool, calm, and collected team all the way through the tourney, except in the Saturday afternoon game with Manilla. In that game they looked just a mite jittery in winning an overtime decision, 50 to 48.

Ralph Kramer, Lawrence Parks, and Philip Hester were chosen on the All County Tourney Team. Steve Kennedy and Del Monte Wagner received honorable mention.

SEASON AVERAGES: Offensive 66.8 pts. Defensive 50.6 pts. Difference 16.2 pts.

Arlington completed a successful season. We lost to Morton in the semi-final round of the sectional tourney in an overtime by a score of 66 to 61. We lost two games during the regular season both of them to very good teams; so even though it hurts to get beat, we are still proud of our team, our fine coach and our school for amassing a fine record and topping it off by stopping Rushville in the sectional proving that the little school is still in there as far as Indiana basketball is concerned.
